Laptop use

Long term laptop use

- 1 Invest in a separate monitor a large screen is much easier to read!
- Get an extra keyboard which is cheap and easy to replace and protects the laptop keyboard from accidental damage
- 3 Get a mouse and mouse mat

Short term laptop use - For short term use (20-30 mins) you can rest your laptop on your lap, with your back supported.

with integrated speakers

HDMI cable - this sends the HD display and sound to the monitor

Foot rest

Back and neck pain - When we are concentrating on doing something we don't notice our posture – even when it causes us pain. We can even stop breathing and yet we need oxygen to think!

Neck strain

Curved upper back

Bad posture -

Spending lots of time in this position will result in permanently bad posture.

Take regular breaks

Bad posture -

Sitting like this for more than 10 mins will cause severe pain in your back and neck.

Learn to type

If you learn to type your hands will be positioned correctly:

Whereas single or three finger typing is not as good for you.

Consider your wrists!

When using the keyboard, your wrists should be straight to avoid straining them:
